Invites you to its meeting July 27, 2016 at First Presbyterian Church, Lafayette Place, Greenwich, CT.

Dr. George Ubogy
“Music for Non-Musicians”

Music, in one form or another, is a language that speaks to every society. George Ubogy will discuss and demonstrate its basics and some of its complexities.

How does music differ from noise? How does the brain sense music? How do the great composers use music to paint pictures and to convey emotional states? He will explicate the mysteries of clefs (treble and bass), keys, key signature, time signature, tempo markings and volume markings, the nature of musical sounds and their perception by the ear and the brain, and the perception of sound. Dr. Ubogy will discuss these issues, using piano demonstrations.

George Ubogy attended the Juilliard Preparatory Division and continues to play the piano for pleasure. While in college at Cornell, he learned to play the Cornell Chimes (a small carillon) and often submits occasional musical arrangements to his alma mater. In his spare time, and to make a living, he was for many years an internist, and Medical Director of the Addiction Recovery Center of Greenwich Hospital.
